CHANZY BEFORE DEFEAT.

The Army of the Loire in Splendid Condition.

The Prussians Within Ten Miles of Le Mans.

PROSPECTS OF A GREAT BATTLE.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE LOIRE, LE MANS, Jan. 10, 1871. Probably the most eventful campaign of the pre-sent war will be at white heat in less than ten days, when the whole of Chanzy's army will have entirely recovered from the disasters inflicted by the enemy upon the left wing of the Army of the Loire. GENERAL CHANZY bimself is now ill, suffering from a sore throat and rneumatic pains in his limbs, which, however, only capacitate him for field service. At the état major he attends every day and assiduously walches every detail. I am convinced that he is a great man, a severe disciplinarian, watchful of his advance posts, so cautious as not to be surprised, willing to profit by mistakes and ready to compel obedience to every order. Under his command the mobiles have be some soldiers and machines. They no longer smoke in the ranks, but even if wading through slush and mud they keep in column and can be whirled inte line of battle without delay. The daily exercise is severe, thorough, rain or shine, and the officers have been selected with great care. General Chanzy guards his railroad communications, He has a better organized system of supplies and provisions than I ever saw in the Prussian army, though I traversed it from terminus to terminus; and he has not only the hardy ns, but marines in great numbers, Turces, a dashing scout service composed entirely of Alge-rians officered by the French, including the Prancs-tireurs. The artitlery is constituted of all field cannon known to war, and the primers are exded by the best gunners of the fleet. Horses fine Arabians, splendidly marked and beautifully tormed, than at any other point of the Continent. These horses have great endurance and they never fig. Chanzy is very popular and has the confidence of his army, which I set down, all comprised, at 160,000 men.

at ms army, which I set down, all comprised, at 100,000 men.

at present is one vast general headquarters, filled with rolling stock, military stores, soldiers, officers and gendarmes. The army is encamped around the city, and its front extends along a line of twenty miles. Soldiers do not make free because France is a republic. They are excluded from the cafes and enjoy no more liberty than regulars did under the imperial regime.

THE WHOLM ARMY IS BEING FED upon the richest food to bring up their fighting blood, and 600 beeves a day are slaughtered, 75,000 kilogrammes of bread distributed, with large rations of wine. This morning I saw 1,000 of the choicest beeves ever beheld in France. This vast and liberal commissariat amazes every one. I find nothing but Chassepots, Sinders, hemingtons or anufboxes among the soldiers.

THE OBGANIZATION

anufboxes among the soldiers.

THE ORGANIZATION

is like the economy of a household, and all the soldiers need is to fight well before the enemy. Long trains, battalions for the front, excited newsbeys, the departure of rapidly succeeding trains, the anxiety for the news and the terrible din of the cornet keep the city in a roar.

The mobilized gendarmes are also here in force. They are the best formed and most inilitary looking of the whole command, but I imagine do not take their mobilization well. The gendarmeric of France is 38,000 strong, and it was too powerful an imperial influence not to be disintegrated for military uses.

their mobilization well. The gendarmeric of France is 80,000 strong, and it was too powerful an imperial influence not to be disintegrated for military uses.

OMPLAINTS AGAINST LANDED PROPRIETORS.
Great complaint is made against French landed proprietors that they receive the Prussians warmly to their chateaux and their own soldiers coldity.

BALLOON NAVIGATION.

M. Butol professes to have solved the problem of bailoon navigation to perfection, and will employ it in General Chanzy's army. He uses no basket appended, but is concealed in an unfilled open chamber in the body of the balloon, which assumes the form adapted to aerial currents.

ENGINNING OF THE GREAT BATTLE OF THE 9TH. The Prussians, on the th, attacked the French at villechauve, Villeporche and St. Cyr, and first forced the line to Neuville. The French then took the offensive and reoccupied all the positions, entering St. Amand in the night. The enemy retired on Vendôme, leaving a large number of wounded and prisoners on the field, and appears to have saffered a great deal. On the line of Le Mans the enemy has reoccupied the position of La Fourche and again menaces Nogent-le-Rotron.

THE GOVERNMENT ON THE GARONNE.

The Acting Government of Provincial France The Representatives of Foreign Powers in Bordeaux-The Newspapers of the City and Their Proclivities.

BORDEAUX, Jan 10, 1871. The continuity of receptions customary on New Year's Day at the various European courts has been ruptured. Statesmen and politicians are suddenly relieved from anxiety coupled with the ceremonie and etiquette at the Tulleries. The traditional ech from the throne at the Salle de Diane belongs pow to the things obsolete, and the general public need not trouble their heads about what the Emperor said. While Paris continues under a strict blockade, Bordeaux, provisionally the capital of France, has declined to usurp the honors of the day, as shown by the laconic announcement in the Mont tour, of which the following is a translation:-

The delegation of the government of the national defence has decided that, in view of present circumtances, there will be no public reception on New Year's Day. Functionaries and employée of all grades are consecuently exempted from making the natual visits. The Ministerial Bureau will be kept open on January 1, as on ordinary days.

LEON GAMBETTA.

Thus the Ambassadors and Ministers have had it all their own way this season; probably they may arrange among themselves an imprompt u court cirele. All the principal countries of Europe are represented at Bordeaux-excepting, of course, Germany I subjoin a list of the various representatives:—Great Britain is represented by Lord Lyons, formerly ac-credited to the United States; Prince Metternich is the Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary for the Austrian empire; Spain has a Charge d'Affaires in the person of M. de Hernandez; Greece M. Phocion Rocque; the Chevalier de Nigra represents the King of Italy; the Marquis de Seisai the King of Portugal; General Nazaraga is Chargé d'Affaires for Persia; Baron Okouenest represents the Russian empire; Count Steenbook Sweden and Norway, and Djemil Pasha is the Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary for Turkey. In addition to these ten legations we have a Papal Nuncio. Monsignore Chigi. The American mission has remained in Paris, but the interests of the United States are represented here by the Consul, Mr. Clinch.

In this connection it may be interesting to repeat the names of the members representing the delega-tion of the national defence, resident at Bordeaux:— M. Leon Gambetta, Minister of Interior and Acting Minister of War; M. Cremieux, Minister of Justice and president of the delegation; Admiral Fourichon represents the navy; M. Glais-Bizoin, Minister without portfolio. In regard to the latter it may be mentioned that there are strong rumors predicting his resignation. The other branches of the administration are represented by assistant secretaries, delegated by the ministers resident at Paris, thus:— The Count de Chaudodory is acting for the Minister of Foreign Affairs; M. de Roussy, Finances; M. de Bourenille, Public Works; M. de Frécinet, Chief of the War Department, and M. Steenackers, Director General of the Post Office and Telegraph Department. Considering the extraordinary difficulties under which the whole service is necessarily under which the whole service is necessarily laboring, it seems quite marvellous to observe the regularity with which the public business is conducted. The apparent absence of all contusion is all the more remarkable since probably few of the old functionaries are now in office; at all events they are locked up in Parts, and most of the men in charge are comparatively new to the profession they have embraced. It cannot be repeated too often that M. Gambetta is the soul and body of all. He is apparently a mant who man master every subject; his resources equal his energy. Those who have witnessed the confusion which existed at Tours in the beginning of the month of October can alone appreciate the enermonth of October can alone appreciate the enermous amount of work that has been accomplished. There was not at that period neither a soldier nor a rifle, while at the present moment there are more than 600,000 men in the field, and as many more are gerving as home guards. This is all due to the specied of M. Gambetta. Yet, as stated in my letter of pasterday's date, he is subjected to the most violent attacks from the opposition press. Out of twelve duly papers only three or four give him unqualified support. The newspapers published abordeaux may be divided into two classes—first, the local and provincial press, and, secondly, the Parisan press, published temporarily at Bordeaux. The Gironde is the only one giving unqualified support to M. Gambetta. All the others are written in opposition; not that they are opposed to a republic, but merely because they feel in duly bound to write down the paper which has the largest circulation. They keep a constant fight among themselves, without really presenting any faction. Each of the journals brings forward daily what it is pleased to term a leader, but which, in point of fact, is seldom more than an essay. The war news is confined to rumors and incidents of personal valor—statements which almost invariably are copied from contemporaries, and which have to be accepted with various grains of allowance. The remainder is filled up with such telegrams as the government chooses to communicate or which their agent at Havre is permitted to disseminate. The main object of the editors of each of these papers is apparently to raise captious objections and to keep up a constant quarrel with his neighbor. By doing so they amuse the public and create a sale for their journals. Some of them are written in the interests of a certain party. For instance the France, though ostensibly republican, is published in the interest of the Orleans Princes, and the Gazette de France in the interest of the Chambord party. Consequently if they attack the provisional government we know perfectly well the reason why. But, if we see a paper professed y supparting the republic, yet opposing the provisional government merely because it has the support of the editor of a contemporary, it would seem that there must be something wrong. Whether M. Gambetta and the other members of the provisional government are in a position to weather the storm which has been raised against porary, it would seem and the other mem-wrong. Whether M. Gambetta and the other mem-bers of the provisional government are in a position to weather the storm which has been raised against them depends entirely on the success of the armies during the next two weeks. It is idle to think that the contest before Paris can be carried on beyond the end of this month, and by it M. Gambetta seems determined to stand or to fall.

VENEZUELA.

Illegal Detention of an American Vessel-Protest of the Captain-Formal Demand for Indemnity-Pulgar's Exactions-Guzman Blanco's Circular to Venezuelan Consuls-He Announces the Accession of His Government.

MARACAIRO, Jan. 2, 1871. The detention of the schooner J. M. Morales at Maracalbo drew forth a strong protest from Captain P. O. Hooper, master. It appears that Pulgar, who was greatly in need of money, after evying on all the merchants of the city, endeavored to blackmall the owners of the Morales, on the ground that the owners of the cargo were shippers of Maracaibo. They refused his demands, and the record that the owners of the cap were subject recess, such being detained outcome day, was allowed to go. The captain, previous to leaving,

GUZMAN'S CIRCULAR. After the capitulation of the city of Maracaibo, which completed the conquest of the States of Venezuela by Guzman Blanco, bringing them all under his government, he issued the following circular to all Venezuelan Consuls at foreign ports:-

under his government, he issued the following circular to all Venezucian Consuls at foreign ports:—

CABACAS. Dec. 21, 1370.

The whole nation is now under one government. The States of Trujillo and Merida have become a part of the United States of Venezucia by the surrender of the national army, which made but a slight resistance. The State of Tachira has also acceded. The city of La Vila, in the State of Coro, having been conquered, that State also becomes one of the United States. The capture of the city of Maracaibo by General Elenzar Urdanatee, in command of General Pulgar's troops, which was effected, together with the capture of the navy, after thirteen days' active fighting, assisted by the rebellion of the garrison at the Fort of San Carlos, has completely brought the States of Venezucia under the national government. In the West a small band of revolutionists still remain, but are being vigorously followed up by General José J. Breildo, Minister of War in commission.

The reduction of taxes on real estate, the establishment of districts for public schools, the reduction of import duties seventy per cent, the new organization of customs, the opening of new roads from capital to the West and South, the completion of the roads to the East, the protection and encouragement afforded for the cultivation of the sugar cane and the production of wheat, the erection of mills, the establishment of a college, museum, public library and conservatory have all been accomplished. Other measures of public interest and improvement will be brought forward, which will tend to the progress of the country and place it on a high footing among the nations of the world and bring peace and harmony to the whole republic.

A WALKING PESTILENCE. Important Arrest by One of Mr. Bergh's Officers.

One of Mr. Bergh's men, passing through the Bowery recently, noticed a diseased horse in front of a truck. No one was with the vehicle at the time, and the officer proceeded to take possession, when an Irishman, one Michael Comisky, of No. 415 East Nineteenth street, emerged from a liquor store near by and protested against Bergh's representative taking such a liberty with his property. This tative taking such a liberty with his property. This being the point the officer was waiting to settle—viz., the ownership—he not only took the horse and cart, but alse Mike, much to the latter's disgust. The animal was suffering from farcy, which is a dangerous and contagions disease both to man and beast, brought on by bad stabling of the animal, starvation, &c. All the inside of the legs was covered with ulcerated, running sores. Dr. Liantard examined the animal and ordered its destruction at once. Mike denied that he knew anything was the matter with his horse, but he quickly got out of the way of the officer. Had it not been for the latter spotting this poor, wornout and diseased creature when he did, no doubt Mr. Comisky would have continued to have worked the horse and stabled him among others, thereby spreading one of the horrible diseases to which the norse is subject, in addition to the danger to human beings.

THE CAMDEN RIOTS.

The trial of the Camden election rioters has occupled two weeks in the United States District Court at Trenton, and it is likely to occupy two days yet. Mr. Browning, counsel for the defence, summed up yesterday, and Mr. King, for the defence, will speak to-day. Over sixty witnesses were examined, and altogether the trial will prove both an expensive altogether the that will and a troublesome one.

A WESTCHESTER WILL CASE.

Disputing the Validity of a Testamentary Document.

Singular Developments Before surrogate Coffin-A Ritter Domestic Fend-The Bone of Conten ion a Quarter of a Million Dollars-How it is Alleged the Ancient Testator was Coerced.

An interesting case of a contested will, evolving singular developments of a domestic nature, and involving property to the amount of about $250,000, was commenced before Surrogate Owen T. Conin, of Westchester county, at White Plains, on Monday. The litigants are a brother and two sisters, all three being children of the testator The family is one of the oldest and, perhaps, most extensively known throughout the entire county. From the testimony elicited before the Surrogate it would appear that John Bussing, Sr., deceased, was

A PROSPEROUS FARMER, living near Williamsbridge, in the town of Yonkers that he accumulated property to the amount of $250,000 and upwards; that about twenty-five years ago, as set forth by some members of his family, he became fearful for the safety of his possessions, by a reported accident on the Harlem Railroad, in which connection it was said that a cow had got on the track, through an imperfect fence owned by him, and had thrown a train off the track, occasioning serious loss of life. Entertaining the belief that he would be held responsible for the disaster, to the amount of $25,000,

HE BECAME DESPONDENT and took to his bed, which he kept continuously from that time to his death, a period of twenty-two years. While an apparent invalid it never could be discovered that he was suffering from any physical disease, nor was he attended by any medical man until a few weeks prior to his death. It also aphis mind and habits underwent an entire change. From the exhibaration consequent upon an active life he became indifferent to all trifling affairs, and his nitherto cheerful disposition where we then lived; my father was a little over eighty-three years old; about two years ago we sold the homestead; the farm was sold to A MAN NAMED CASE; he was to pay $100,000 for it, and paid $5,000 at the execution of the contract, $30,000 more when the deed was delivered, and gave a mortgage for the baiance; 1 got $25,000 of the $35,000, and my mother received $10,000; the business was closed at the house; 1 think the money was paid in two checks of Case; one to me of $20,000 and one to my mother of $10,000; the $5,000 first payment was a check payable to my order; I got the money and kept it; Mr. Morgan, a lawyer in Pine street, New York, brought the contract to the house; myself, mother, Mrs. Khapp, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Case and his wife were present; I think my mother or Mr. Furdy presented the deed to my father to execute;

A DEED WAS PREPARED some years before by Mr. Purdy from my father to me; this was at my request; it was three or four years before the Case deed was executed; I never saw the deed afterwards, but I think it is in Mr. Purdy's possession; I asked Mr. Purdy to make out a deed of the place to me at my father's request, because I did not consider the will as sa'e, and I should have nothing to show if the will should be destroyed or lost; the will had then been in the house for about ten years, and was in danger of being tampered with; I mean my sister, Mrs. Ryer; she used to come up there and have PRETTY Hight words; she talked as though she would assail or destroy the will; she was bitterly opposed to it, and I took this mode of getting the deed to secure my rights; ac-

Q. Did you not tell your father, in the presence of Abby Ryer, that he should sign that deed, and at the same time strike your fist against the wall with such force as to make a hole there, which still remains pasted over? A. I did not.

After some other unimportant testimony a further hearing of the case was adjourned.

United States Commissioner Gorham refused to entertain the charge when it was first brought before him. Deputy Marshal Toles then took the witnesses to Albany, but the Grand Jury re-fused to Indict. Then, for the third time, the case was brought before United States Commissioner Sheldon, who issued a warrant for the arrest of Captain Dononue, but after an examination, which lasted two days, he was obliged to order the Cap-tain's discharge.

CUSTOM HOUSE AFFAIRS.

Administration of Collector Murphytecelpts from Customs and Cost of Collec tien-The Appointments at the Custom House-The Story of the Festive "Boys"

The vast interests which are bound up in the administration of the Custom House have made it the bject of endless comments, and the actions of Collector Murphy have received much hostile criticism at the hands of his opponents. Some have declared that his position is shaken. Others have gone so far as to say that his removal was imminent, or merely a question of time. In order to silence the clamors of his adversaries he has given leave to publish the following letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, which is a flattering comment upon his administratien and shows that the affairs of the Custom House are at present in a more prosperous condition than under any former management. Collector Murphy received the following letter yesterday:--

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, J. SIR-I have caused to be prepared a statement showing. the amounts received from customs from July 21 to Suptember 31 inclusive, in the district of New York, for the years 1867-68-69-70; the gross expense of collection for the same periods respectively, the rate per cent which the cost of collection bears to the cilection for each six months, and also for the whole period in the aggregate. It may be satisfactory to you to know that the rate per cent of the cost of collection during the tirst six months of your administration is 16-100 of one per cent less than the average cost for the period covered by the statement and within 5-100 of one per cent of the lowest point reached, which appears to have been in the last half of the year 18-8.

GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, Secretary.

According to the following statement the amount.

According to the following statement the amount received for customs under Collector Murphy's administration has been much larger and the aggregate cost of collection considerably less than under any preceding Collector. This is the most favorable comment that can be made on Mr. Murphy's management of the Custom House. The flevres will speak for themselves. Cost of collection for each six months (from 1st July to 31st December) of the years 1s67-68-69-70-1867, under Collector Smythe, $58,077,570-average cost, 193-100 per cent of receipts; 1869, under Moses H. Grinnell, $61,796,753-cost of collection, 163-100 per cent; 1870, under Collector Murphy, $70,073,767-cost of collecting the above, 100-100 per cent.

Collector Murphy stated to the Herald reporter that the story regarding room No. 9 of the Custom House, related by one of the daily papers yesterthat the story regarding room No. 9 of the Custom House, related by one of the daily papers yesterday, was entirely false. It represented that the Congressional Committee, consisting of Senator Patterson and Congressman Sheldon, had interrupted some of the Custom House officials in the act of holding a drunken revel in room No. 9, whither they had repaired to make their investigations. Mr. Murphy states that no such scene as described took place, and the whole story is an invention from beginning to end.

CONCERT IN CHRIST CHURCH, BROOKLYN, E. D.

The persevering people who defied the elements and went to the concert holden in Christ Church, E. D., last night, were rewarded by a musical treat not often enjoyed at a concert given wholly by amateur performers.

The audience doubtless would have been much larger if the clouds and the wind had not been so discouraging. The programme, which was excellent, consisted of selections from "Farmer's Mass," song from Wallace, aria from Donizetti, anthem from Mozart, solo, duet and quartet from Mendels-soln, and several songs from Bishop, Millard and others.

from Mozart, solo, duet and quartet from Mendelssohn, and several songs from Bishop, Millard and others.

Mrs. Latham, the contralto of Christ church choir, was encored at every appearance, and well deserved the applause that she received, her voice having unusual compass and sweetness, and her enunciation being very refreshing when compared with the majority of singers, who pronounce so indistinctly that, so far as the words are concerned, a psaim of David and "Shoo, Fly" are identical in their mouths.
Mrs. Shanley, an Eastern District singer, who ought to be known to fame, sang "Tell Me, My Heart," a song by Bishop, with much sweetness and expression, and a chorus of male voices made the audience wish that they could hear such choruses oftener. On the whole, the concert was so good that the choir were requested to repeat it at an early date. As it was given by the choir of Christ church in aid of the church musical fund all interested in the object of the concert will be giad to have an opportunity to hear a repetition of such good music.

within the limits of the town of Newtown without having the benefit of medical aid. In each case a coroner's inquest was held and a verdict rendered simply stating the facts. In five of these cases it was the opinion of the physician making the post-mortem examination that proper medical assistance would have saved life. The reason in all these cases why a physician was not called was poverty. The town of Newtown is the wealthiest of the county; more meney is paid to support politicians, mere to support constables, more to support rum than all the other towns in the county spend. There are over 300 rum shops in the town one to every eight persons—and yet the town cannot support its cwn poor. A poor woman, honest, industrious and temperate, but sick, was allowed but two dollars per week for six weeks, to purchase all the necessities of life—coal, feod, raiment—for herself and four small children, and this only after a well known physician had pers naily appealed to the town Poor Commissioners.
